Dear Robert,

Thank you so much for the memorial to Lois and Dwight, for I certainly appreciate it. As I've told you before, Dwight was more like a brother to me than a cousin, and his family is very close. Now, I'll be like the Scranton man - but - in the obituaries of Dwight, an error was made in his life as a teacher, for he graduated from Bucknell in 1920, and began teaching then, not in 1912. Probably one of his children will make a note of that, but at any rate I thought best to have it corrected.

Margaret has already written to Donald, giving him the names of the folks in the pictures, and since he has the list of the people at the reunion, he can check the names.
